SPEECH OF HON. RUFUS CHOATE, AT THE WHIG STATE CONVENTION.

Reported by the Adels, by Henry Parkhurst.

I cannot suppose Mr. President, notwithstanding the great and overwhelming kindness of this call, that it can really be the wish of the Convention to hear from me, at least anything in the nature of a speech. Considering, however, how little we have left, how much important business remains for the Convention to do, and considering, most of all, what anxious you must all naturally be to listen, rather than to me, to the present speakers, with whom I am in entire sympathy, I will speak so far as to say that the third grand idea was that of a fundamental and eternal truth, the market of America belongs to the farmer and the mechanic of the country, pre-eminently qualified for the station which we call him. It is a truth which I have often and frequently asserted, that the fourth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the fifth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the sixth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the seventh grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the eighth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the ninth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the tenth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the eleventh grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twelfth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the thirteenth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the fourteenth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the fifteenth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the sixteenth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the seventeenth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the eighteenth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the nineteenth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twentieth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twenty-first grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twenty-second grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twenty-third grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twenty-fourth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twenty-fifth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twenty-sixth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twenty-seventh grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twenty-eighth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the twenty-ninth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the thirtieth grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the thirty-first grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and that the thirty-second grand idea was, that the world is to be won over to our cause, and
